

DESIGNATED PLAYER

When using a designated player (DP)

1. A team starts the game with 10 players.
2. The DP bats for the DEFO (Defence Only), who is listed in the 10th place in the Line-Up.
3. The DP and DEFO may be substituted using players from the bench.
4. The starting DP and DEFO may re-enter once.
5. The DP may field for any player, at any position, at anytime.
6. The player that the DP fields for must still bat, and becomes a ‘temporary DP’.
7. The DP fielding for any player, other than the DEFO, is not a substitution, as no player has entered the game from the bench.
8. If the DP fields for the DEFO, the DEFO has left the game. The game continues with 9 players. The starting DEFO may re-enter once or a substitute may resume, as the DEFO, and the game then reverts back to 10 players.
9. The DEFO may bat but only in the place of the DP, and this is not a substitution, as no player has entered the game from the bench.
10. If the DEFO bats for the DP, the DP has left the game. The game continues with 9 players. The starting DP may re-enter once or a substitute may resume, as the DP, and the game then reverts back to 10 players. The DEFO goes back to fielding only.
